

Copy: Traveller Accommodation
Unit

Red Lodge
Rathcoole
County Dublin

M J Horan
Dublin County Manager

14/12/2005

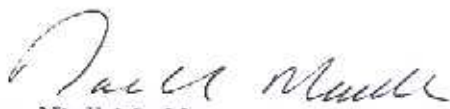

Dear Mr Horan

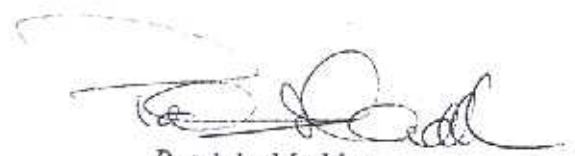

I would again like to voice our objections to your proposed development of the land adjoining our business which as you know is the training of race horses. You very kindly came out to see for yourself how close the land is to our premises. You could see that the close proximity of our training gallops to the boundaries of the site are dangerous. I am sure you must agree that it would cause major problems to our business and put our staff at major risk. As I am sure you are equally aware of the problems of insurance.

You must also consider the dangers to any one who would possibly come on to the lands where there are horses. It was pointed out to you that they are not docile animals and scare easily and could attack or charge people or children if they are spooked.

Mr Fagan remarks at the very beginning of this proposal are not of any value now but to say he would not have purchased the site if he had known of the business beside the site should be enough to make you reconsider at this stage.

Yours Sincerely

Niall Madden

Patricia Madden

