Mayor's Foreword

I am delighted as Mayor and First Citizen to be introducing the 2016 Annual Report for South Dublin County Council. This Report represents a snapshot of the County as our reflections on the events of 1916 inspire us for the future.

When honoured by my peers and elected Mayor of this mighty County in June 2016, I said I would focus on 'Celebrating Community'. Building on the priorities of my two Progressive Alliance predecessors, I determined we focus on community, on the marginalised in our County especially those with a disability, and on those from ethnic minorities and on the needs of older persons.

Judged by the ideals of the 1916 proclamation we have a woefully unequal society in Ireland. Our challenge as a society is, I believe, to give expression to that part of the proclamation that states we must "cherish all of our children equally". This is not only about persons young in years, yes that's where it starts, but also about all persons living in our Republic, which in our case means living in our County. We are meant to cherish all, irrespective of creed, colour, ability, orientation or when they settled in Ireland. We can only do this I believe if we embrace a genuine humanitarian approach. The challenge I faced when elected Mayor, and which we all face is to build an inclusive and fair society. We have persons from some 120 different nationalities residing in our County.

That represents a fair diversity. It is a challenge that I believe we as the Councillors, Executive and Citizens of South Dublin County have already risen to as witnessed by this Annual Report. There is a serious commitment evident in our County, as expressed by our very active Social Inclusion Unit, to build an inclusive society. It has become obvious to me since becoming Mayor, having had an opportunity to witness at first-hand what is going on in South Dublin County, that we are not just embracing the type of diversity which is facilitative of the different cultures and traditions but one which positively promotes them. This is most encouraging for the future.

The oldest ethnic minority in our County is the Traveller Community and as the Chairperson of the Local Traveller Accommodation Advisory Committee, I was already very aware and appreciative of the good record of this County in relation to providing accommodation for Travellers. As elected representatives we continue to work with the executive, the Clondalkin and Tallaght Traveller Support Groups, the Traveller Community and the settled community in bringing about a greater understanding and sense of appreciation between the settled community and the Traveller Community. I am very appreciative of the support of my fellow Councillors in my proposal to establish a Traveller Community Forum in our County where Travellers celebrate, promulgate and promote those interests that are special to their heritage, culture and identity.

During my term on office I have endeavored to empower the many voluntary and community based groups and organisations we have in this County and who do such tremendous and valuable work. We have an excellent Public Participation Network (PPN) here in South Dublin which is intended to be the umbrella body for civic society. It does not replace elected democracy and the public can also work through their local Councillor, or both. However the PPN provides an independent forum where the public can have an input into decision making at Local Government level, to engage directly in decision making. The PPN provides a forum where the public can access information and influence decisions of the local authority. I am delighted to get support during my term for a Mayor's Conference in Tallaght Stadium on "Putting People First" in early 2017.

This will allow the respective roles and responsibilities of the three key players PPN, Executive and Elected Councillors to be examined and reflected upon in a manner that I hope will lead to better communication and more effective collaboration between all three stakeholders and consequently a more effective and efficient Local Government service for all citizens.

Similarly, I am delighted also that in 2017 we will launch the "Participative Budgeting" Pilot for one Electoral Area. It is hoped that this ground making initiative will lead to real involvement in future years by the Citizens of South Dublin County on the service and facilities priorities they want for their neighbourhood while also building solidarity across all areas and especially with those most in need.

During 2016 the Local Enterprise Office has been very active in promoting and supporting jobs. In collaboration with the South Dublin Chamber of Commerce it held a hugely successful Enterprise Awards and brought an awareness of the Tourism opportunities in our County to new heights. This includes a five year strategy and a feasibility study that will examine how the flagship Dublin Mountains can be both promoted and conserved for future generations. Also, a Liffey Blueway and restoration of the "Silver Bridge" from Waterstown Park to Farmleigh are being pursued. I also want to focus on the Irish Language and the role of Áras Chrónáin.

When I first entered politics it was to focus on the needs of people and communities; the environment; and balanced planning that puts people first. My slogan then was "People before Party", and still is. The County has mushroomed over the past 25 years and I continue to campaign for the facilities and services that should have been provided hand-in-hand with the houses. I acknowledge and welcome the commitment in the Councils current Capital and Fiscal budget to addressing this deficit. We are about building communities; especially true given the current housing and homeless crises. I have endeavoured to use every opportunity during my term as Mayor to seriously address the housing crises and I compliment my fellow Councillors and the executive for the huge commitment they have shown in this regard.

Finally, I would like to thank the Chief Executive, Danny McLoughlin and his staff for the dedicated work they do and my fellow Councillors for providing the leadership that will enable our communities to be fully integrated and enjoy the quality of live that they aspire to and deserve. I want to compliment in a special way the Deputy Mayor Councillor Martina Genockey who has done the office proud and brought a real personal contribution to the role of Deputy Mayor.

Cllr. Guss O'Connell
South Dublin County Council

Introduction from the Chief Executive

As we approach the mid-point of this Council's term, it is encouraging to be in a position to report considerable progress across all of our objectives to make our County 'a better place to live, work and do business'. Before commenting on some of the highlights, I want to also mention the Council's highly successful 2016 Centenary Programme which facilitated enormous participation in this national celebration.

In general the year marked the midpoint of not just of the council term, but the progression and transition of plans and programmes from concept and planning through to early realization. This is particularly true in relation to our foremost priority of housing. Eight projects with a total yield of 260 units have been progressed through planning, four schemes have been tendered and will commence in March, with the balance being tendered in early 2017 for commencement later in the year. Two further schemes at Old Bawn and St. Cuthberts with the potential of a further 83 units are currently on public display, while a Prior Information Notice has been issued in respect of a joint venture mixed tenure development of up to 900 houses at Kilcarbery, and will be advertised for expressions of interest early in 2017. Private housing supply has started to show a positive trajectory. The review of the County Development Plan and the Clonburris SDZ review now underway will provide further certainty in this regard. An application has been made to the recently announced Infrastructure Support Fund for four of our key development sites at Adamstown, Clonburris, Kilcarbery and Ballycullen. A positive decision is expected in this regard.

Economic, enterprise and tourism development are central to our strategy to grow the local economy and provide opportunities for our citizens. The €1.2m Business Support Fund which represents 1% of commercial rates, is being targeted effectively at supporting the SME, retail and indigenous enterprise sectors. The Marketing Strategy for Grange Castle Business Park has had a positive impact, with the planned expansion of three existing businesses and the development of two additional. The €20m upgrade of the adjacent Nangor and Newcastle roads will commence in summer 2017 which will support the planned expansion westwards of the Park, following the recent completion of strategic land acquisitions for this purpose. The Clondalkin Round Tower Visitor Centre currently under construction will open next summer, while the Dublin Mountain Gateway is now undergoing rigorous environmental assessment. Studies of Corkagh Park and Rathfarnham Castle will explore further tourism attraction investment opportunities for consideration in quarter one of 2017.

Notwithstanding the need for new attractions, the quality of our existing villages and the general presentation of the county are also critically important elements of our offer. The Villages Enhancement Programme saw the completion of Rathcoole and Rathfarnham during the year. Environmental quality and aesthetic presentation are key objectives of our public realm and environment department. The adoption of new Tree and Litter Management Policies during the year has guided additional investment in landscaping, tree pruning and planting, litter management and public realm upgrade. Public and voluntary participation in our Environmental Awareness, Social Credits, Green Schools and Tidy Towns Programmes, all contribute greatly to our sense of pride of place and community.

Annually we invest over €2m in community support programmes including summer projects, arts initiatives, endeavour awards, community grant and initiative schemes, the return on which is enormous in terms of goodwill and volunteerism. Likewise community health and wellbeing is supported through a wide range of wellbeing programmes and infrastructure investments including libraries, playgrounds, sports pavilions and facilities all of which are detailed in this annual update. It is particularly encouraging that South Dublin was awarded “Healthy County” status during the year, a designation we intend to maintain.

The achievements during the year have been facilitated somewhat by a return to recruitment for the first time since 2009. Close to 200 new staff have joined the organisation in 2016, as a result of retirements and the recognition of the need to increase employment to meet increased demand and the gradual return to a more stable economy. The everyday work of our frontline staff is fundamental to public service and expectation. In terms of personal interaction we handled over 500 media queries, engaged with 15,700 followers on social media, processed 90,000 citizen queries and answered 190,000 telephone queries.

In summary progress during the past year has been encouraging and the detail set out in this report reflects positively on the organisation’s efforts to deliver on its Corporate Plan. While there are international considerations to our economic outlook, we can be reasonably sure that the immediate outlook is positive.

Finally, I would like to thank Mayor Guss O’ Connell, Council Members and Staff for their contribution and delivery of the outcomes of this report.
